Co-Sponsorship Guidelines

Guidelines and requirements for co-sponsorship of academic and community events, programs, and initiatives

The Johns Hopkins Urban Health Institute (UHI) works across the University to advance health and health equity in Baltimore via a wide range of programs, events, educational, and funding opportunities designed to facilitate collaborations, mobilize resources, and advance dialogue and community involvement. Through co-sponsorship, we aim to provide funding and/or logistical support to organizations, academic centers, and departments who share and support our mission with the following objectives:

- To define how the UHI lends its name and iconography to co-sponsor events and initiatives of others.
- To offer co-sponsorship as a vehicle for increasing participation and attendance for programs and initiatives.
- To expand impact both internally and externally by co-sponsoring programs and initiatives.
- To unify efforts across Johns Hopkins and Baltimore.

TYPES OF CO-SPONSORSHIP

- Financial co-sponsorship is when the UHI provides financial support for events, programs, and initiatives that align with the UHI’s strategic goals.

- Non-Financial Resource co-sponsorship must be aligned with the UHI’s strategic goals and is a collaboration where UHI provides the expertise of its team by jointly arranging an event, program, or initiative and contributing to its programming. This type of co-sponsorship may include:
  - Logistic and planning support
  - Marketing and advertising

- Full co-sponsorship is when the UHI provides both financial and non-financial resource support.

REQUIREMENTS FOR CO-SPONSORSHIP
