The Third Annual Symposium on the Social Determinants of Health Squandered Resources: Incarceration – Its Consequences, Costs and Alternatives

April 28, 2014
Turner Auditorium
Johns Hopkins University East Baltimore Campus

OBJECTIVES

1. To create a learning opportunity that will bring faculty, administration, and students from Baltimore's area colleges and universities together with engaged community residents, service professionals and leaders to increase awareness of the impact of incarceration on health in Baltimore and Maryland and to identify ways to counter the current trajectory.
2. To bring together experts (researchers and practitioners) from all relevant sectors to share evidence-based strategies that reduce incarceration, decrease recidivism, and mitigate the impacts of incarceration on individual and community health.
3. To encourage innovative partnerships for research and collaboration in the area of incarceration between Hopkins, area colleges and universities, service organizations and local residents.
4. To identify priorities for Baltimore over the next few years to alter existing policies, strengthen service systems, and promote awareness of incarceration as a health issue.
